Dr. Ramon Brüsseler

Ramon Bruesseler, born in 1962, studied Economic Geography, Economics and Development Economics at the universities of Bonn and Aachen, where he graduated as M.A. in 1989. Three years later he became Ph.D. (summa cum laude) and received the Borchers Award for outstanding scientific work.

After five years as a scientist, specializing in and publishing about Asian economic development he moved to a regional economic development agency as director of international marketing and infrastructure development.

2001 Dr. Bruesseler took over as CEO of Eurasia Managing Agency, an international consultancy with core business in strategy consulting and top management training and main focus on Asian markets. 2007 he became CIM expert and advisor to the board of the Lao National Chamber of Commerce and Industry where he worked on strategic and organizational issues and published several studies about the economic development of the country.

Since May 2011 Dr. Bruesseler is executive director of the European Chamber of Commerce and Industry in Lao PDR, since 2015 he is also board member and treasurer of the European Business Organizations' World Wide Network (EBOWWN), the global network of European Chambers of Commerce and Industry.